Progress in school talks, but no settlement

By BILL WINTER of the Press-Record

Attendance by Granite City students on Tuesday was cancelled today. A decision on Wednesday classes will be made tomorrow morning.

There will be separate meetings tonight of Teachers Local 743 and the Board of Education but no agreement has been reached. The timing of the next bargaining is to be discussed tomorrow.

Negotiators met for seven hours Saturday, making progress toward a settlement, and they attempted to deal with the remaining issues for four hours Sunday, from 7 p.m. to 11 p.m.

Shirley Stoll, Local 743 president, said today that no progress was made last night. "I hope we can get together soon," she commented.

Harold Hillmer, chief negotiator for the school system, agreed today that progress had halted last night. He said the board in the fall semester would immediately correct any regular classroom teacher-student ratio of 40 or more, through use of substitute teachers, transfers and/or rehiring.

In addition, he said, after the sixth day of attendance the district would study all classes in deciding whether additional teachers are needed. There were no classes today, nor on any of the days on which they had been scheduled last week.

Even if classes had been held, the sweltering heat last week might have caused them to be curtailed. Intense heat has been projected for the first half of September, with the temperature possibly reaching 102 this Wednesday through Friday.

There had appeared to be considerable hope Sunday morning that a new one-year pact, August 1983 to August 1984, was attainable quickly, with only a few details to be worked out last night, but that did not prove to be the case.

Major issues have included: Whether to cut, raise or freeze pay levels; how to set mutually agreeable guidelines on average class size; how many honorably dismissed teachers should be called back to work; and the details and duration of recall rights, seniority and severance pay (payment for unused earned absences).

Both sides have indicated some interest in trying to find appropriate wording for a proposed memorandum. It would outline the actions that would occur once the number of students was known at various grade levels and buildings.

Teachers seek an "enforceable," signed document that could be used to obtain a court order, since the board without such a memo has the sole authority to govern hiring; 129 teachers remain on dismissal and the extent of their rehiring will be affected by enrollment and the assignment of children to specific classrooms.

Faculty members said they disagree with references in news accounts to a "promise" or "pledge" by the school district to avoid excessive class sizes. Such a promise has meaning only if it gives detailed procedures and is in writing, teachers told the Press-Record.

Local 743 said its review of potential class sizes showed the most severe problems were at the Prather and Frohardt kindergartens, Mitchell third grade, Marshall fourth grade and Frohardt and Parkway fifth grades.

The district said verbally it will adjust those classes and others if the Practices for Granite City High School teams will continue this week, despite the delay of the first day of school which was slated to begin a week ago.

GC HS students were to begin their fall semester last Tuesday, Aug. 23, but because District 9 and the district's teachers did not come to terms of their working agreement, the start of school has been delayed and the classrooms have remained empty (see related story).

The Illinois High School Association states in its strike policy bylaws that "a member school which does not have 91 percent of the students in the district in attendance and cannot offer the minimum program required by state law and Illinois State Board of Education (ISBE) Circular Series A160 shall not engage in interscholastic activities."

That criteria, although it seems would apply to Granite City, applies to schools in which an "official" strike has been called.

The delay of the first day of school, thus far, has not interrupted high school practices because neither side has formally announced a strike—just a delay in the start of school while contract talks continue.

It is that technicality which has enabled GC HS's varsity teams to continue practice, said Joe Fedora, District 9's assistant administrator for physical education and athletics.

Fedora stated Friday, "It was the board's concern that athletes in the district remain the training course that they began nearly two weeks ago. Coasting practice during the school delay may only inhibit an athlete's per-

Madison schools try to 'beat the heat'

School will begin one hour earlier for students in the Madison Community School District beginning Tuesday, Aug. 30. The early start will enable school officials to dismiss students before the hottest part of the day.

The temporary hours for Blair, Harris, and Louis Baer schools are from 7:40 a.m. to 1:10 p.m. Middle School hours will be from 7:30 a.m. to 1 p.m., and Madison High School students will attend school from 7 a.m. to 12:30 p.m.

These schedules will be followed on a weekly basis until there is a break in the heat wave, and an announcement will be made when the regular schedules are reinstated.

Meet today on Smith bonding

The Madison County Board was expected to meet in a special session earlier today to speed along tax-exempt bond and grant allocations for A.O. Smith Corp.

The preparations were being hurried to meet the Tuesday date set for the sale of $10 million in industrial revenue bonds to equip the automotive frame plant.

According to Attorney Leo Konzen, speaking for the automotive frame plant, final arrangements for the sale of the bonds to the Home Insurance Co. Tuesday will already represent almost a month's delay in the firm's original financing schedule.

The county board was to consider a resolution allowing Nelson Hagnauer of Granite City, county board chairman, to give A.O. Smith a $2.5 million Development Action Grant (UDAG) the county received from the Department of Housing and Urban Development.

The UDAG grant will be given to the firm as a 10-year loan at 8 percent interest. When the firm repays the loan, the money will go to assist other economic development projects.

The UDAG resolution and transaction must be completed before the $10 million in industrial revenue bonds can be cleared for its tax-exempt status.

The Granite City Council authorized the industrial bond issue last week. Cleanup of the plant already has begun.

The $10 million bonds will be part of a $24 million capital investment to retrofit the plant to begin producing front-end assembly frames for a new line of Ford Motor Co. cars.

The front-wheel drive 1986 compact car is expected to enter the marketplace in the fall of 1985.

Employment rise

The unemployment picture in Granite City improved somewhat during July, dropping from 21.3 percent in June to 19.1 percent in July, according to preliminary figures released Saturday by the Illinois Department of Labor.

Mixed activity promoted improvement in employment," said Velda Gerstenecker of the research and analysis section of the Labor Department.

Madison County unemployment also declined in the same months from 15.1 percent to 13.5 percent.

Granite City continues to have the highest unemployment among large cities in the area. Belleville follows with 17.2 percent out of work. Alton is next at 15.1 percent and East St. Louis reports 14.1 percent actively seeking work.

The region remains well above the statewide average of 11.7 percent unemployed in July, an improvement from 12.7 percent in June, the figures show.

Preliminary July totals show that Granite City's workforce declined from 20,700 to 20,450.

$5 mansion tours

"Have you ever been inside the Brimberry mansion?" That is a question we have heard quite a bit since Brimberry was charged with misappropriating funds from the Six & Co. brokerage in St. Louis.

Now the Leon Streif home, better known locally as the Brimberry mansion, will be opened to the public the weekend of Sept. 17 and 18 for those purchasing tickets from the Old Six Mile Historical Society.

Streif, owner of Vandalia Bus Lines, purchased the large Parkway Drive home Aug. 10. He first said he wanted to shy away from publicity because he did not want people to think he was associated in any way with Brimberry. However, he consented to an interview with the Press-Record Aug. 15 and said he purchased the house as an investment, but decided to move into it when his wife fell in love with it.

Georgia Engleke of the historical society read the article and immediately began attempting to get in touch with Streif to see if tours could be arranged as a fund-raising effort for the society.

Arrangements were completed Thursday, with Streif also agreeing to provide buses from a central location to the house for those buying tickets from the society.

The group has decided to sell tickets for $5 a person, which includes the transportation. Details of where to purchase the tickets and where the buses will board are to be announced in the Press-Record when arrangements are completed, Mrs. Engleke said.

Gibson, Dixon lead parade

U.S. Senator Alan J. Dixon will be among the dignitaries to march down Madison Avenue Sept. 5 in the Quad-City Area Labor Day parade.

About 1,000 to 1,500 labor members are expected to participate in the parade, set to start at 10 a.m. on Labor Day, according to Edwin Reiske, Tri-

City Trades and Labor Council president.

Three bands will provide the marching music for the third annual Labor Day Parade, a tradition revived here as workers began climbing out of rough economic conditions for many.

Elderhostel gets national attention

By TOMMYE WALTER

Students hardly expect to top off a university course aboard a Mississippi showboat, being taped by a national network television crew as the students bow and hiss the show's villain.

Yet that is exactly how one class of Elderhostels at Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville spent its final session on the study of river and showboats.

Elderhostels are not "your everyday variety" of college students. They are members of the "60 and over" crowd who believe in the concept of lifelong learning.

Since 1975, when the first Elderhostel was conducted on five New Hampshire university campuses, scores of senior citizens have crisscrossed the country, picking up new friends their own age, renewing old acquaintances and learning something new about a lot of intriguing subjects.

It's an unusual way to pass away the summer and it fits neatly into most senior citizens' pocketbooks. For only $180 a week, seniors who take advantage of Elderhostel offerings can visit any one of more than 600 cooperating colleges and universities in almost any state in the country, as well as in other countries around the world.

It's easy to understand why the program eventually caught the eyes of the producers of CBS's Early Morning News, particularly since scores of features about the seniors have been showing up in the nation's newspapers and periodicals.

It didn't take the television crew, assembled from both New York and Chicago network personnel, long to discover that people who have been working with the Elderhostel program have known all along that Elderhostels are indeed the pacesetters of the senior citizen set. They converge upon the university campus eager to participate every experience, and they do. From the time they arrive until they leave, the seniors keep up a rapid pace that their younger counterparts usually find it difficult to equal.

The Elderhostel session which just ended included mini-noncredit courses on Mississippi steamboats and showboats, a close look at the theater from both sides of the footlights and an introduction to Cahokia, one of America's prehistoric cities.

Several of the Elderhostellers agreed that it was the lure of the riverboats that led to their choosing SIUE over other university campuses they might have visited.

Indeed, the thought of being able to bring to the screen a glimpse of yesterday's rich and colorful life along the levees may have prompted the producers to make the same choice.

As the backwash from the Tom Sawyer, a sightseeing boat that operates in the St. Louis area, lapped against the sides of the Goldenrod, and the television cameras rolled, the Elderhostellers slipped backward in time to an era when paddlewheelers decadent gamblers and rough rivermen were the brightest stars on the river.

It was the river and showboats that lured Warren and Dorothy Lockwood of Granby, Conn., to the SIUE campus. Having spent most of their married lives raising children, paying bills and teaching school, the Lockwoods are now hooked on the Elderhostel programs.

"We're a couple of hawks in these later years. I sell books to schools and libraries, and she sells houses to unsuspecting nice people," Lockwood said.

The Lockwoods were playing a different role during their week at SIUE, "Buying" every experience that was being thrown their way. "We love it — the campus, the classes, the people, everything," Dorothy Lockwood said.

Al and Dorothy Harbach of Kettering, Ohio, felt pretty much the same way. Harbach used to be a contractor in California and his wife had a career in public relations. World travelers, the Harbachs first met each other in Cairo, Egypt, in 1975. Since then, they have been doing a lot of globe-hopping, including a trip to China in 1982 and another to India, Nepal and Sri Lanka this summer.

The class in riverboats and showboats was the deciding factor for Dorothy Harbach. Back home, she is active in supporting the fine arts, particularly the theater and ballet.

Al Harbach's prime interest was in the anthropology class on Cahokia. He has spent the past year working on Dayton's recently discovered Neolithic village.

This year's visitors to the SIUE campus also included people from Pennsylvania, Iowa, New York, New Jersey, Missouri, Nebraska, Wisconsin and Illinois.

In addition to classroom activities, the joint to the Goldenrod, and a field trip to Cahokia Mounds, the senior citizens were guests at several parties. One night they were treated to a "Christmas Party" in August, and on another to a "wilderness" dinner. There also was an old-fashioned barbeque picnic on the schedule.

As the week's activities drew to a close, many of the Elderhostellers were making plans to keep in touch with the new friends they had made. Some of those plans included meeting at one of the Elderhostel programs somewhere in the country next year.

Venice tax levy to remain stable

The anticipated tax rate in Venice next year is not expected to change to any great degree from the current $1.797 per each $100 assessed valuation, according to Venice City Attorney Lawrence Hartman.

The amount includes an estimated levy of $18,990 for bonds and interest, which equals the current year, but this figure is determined each year by the county clerk after the actual assessed valuation of the city is determined, the attorney noted.

Assessed valuation in 1982 on which the taxes now being collected are based was $19,283,576, Hartman said. The valuation figure may increase to $21 million, on which next year's taxes are based, he added.

The present tax rate of $1.797 was extended this year to produce an estimated $346,528 in revenue.

Most of the amounts levied for the various funds remain the same as last year, with a slight increase in the library fund, but decreases are shown in the police pension and IMRF funds.

Amounts levied in the various funds, with last year's in parentheses, are: General, $69,930 (same); street and bridge, $31,000 (same); police protection, $33,600 (same); audit, $3,350 (same); street lighting, $10,500 (same); fire protection, $31,500 (same); garbage collection, $42,000 (same); police pension fund, $44,486 (down from $45,030); public library, $31,500 (up from $30,000); IMRF, $54,032 (down from $57,671); civil defense, $870 (same), and bonds and interest, $18,990 (estimated the same).

Spunky senior looking toward Senior Olympics

Margaret Guccione of East Alton plans to enter two events in this year's Senior Olympics scheduled at Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville on Sept. 9. The events are the one-mile walk and the bowling competition.

Mrs. Guccione's plans are unusual because she is partially handicapped. More than 30 years ago, she was involved in an automobile accident that left her partially disabled.

Mrs. Guccione plans to walk the mile with her cane. "Me and the good Lord — we're going to try," she said, with a lot of determination in her voice. On the other hand, Mrs. Guccione intends to bowl from a sitting position.

The first-time Olympics contender remembers the first time she walked after her accident. It was a 1,000-foot walk. "Nobody knows what that means," she said, remembering that special day.

This year's Olympic games will start with a parade of the senior contestants. Plans also include a color guard, band and a state of dignitaries.

Reba Klenke, coordinator of community programs and public service in the SIUE Office of Continuing Education, is concerned that some of the area's senior citizens may let the deadline for registration slip by before they register for the games. "Not to worry" is the message moving through the local nutrition centers, the seniors will be on hand to cheer, it not to run, jump, toss, and swim.

Sponsored by the Southwestern Illinois Area Agency on Aging, the Senior Olympic games include tennis, table tennis, billiards, bowling, swimming, walks, runs, standing, running and high jumps, horseshoes, golf putting, discus and basketball throws, bicycle races and shotput.

Registration for the games is $4.50 for in-region participants and $6.50 for out-of-region participants.

Seniors planning to participate in the games are advised that they can reserve lunches of fried chicken for $2 through their local nutrition centers if they do it ahead of time. Refreshments also will be available at the SIUE track and field, where most of the events will be conducted.

Additional information may be obtained by contacting the SIUE Office of Continuing Education by calling 1-692-3210.

New state agency created

A newly-created Department of Substance Abuse in Illinois, recently signed into effect by Governor James Thompson, will assume the duties of the Dangerous Drugs Commission and the alcoholism services of the Department of Mental Health on July 1, 1984.

The establishment of the Department will improve the coordination of treatment for individuals who abuse both drugs and alcohol and improve public awareness on issues involving substance abuse.

Sponsored by Representatives Jim Kelly of Jacksonville and John Matiejewicz of North Chicago and Senators Adeline Geo-Karis of Zion and Forest Eberhardt of Aurora, the measure takes effect immediately, with the exception of the startup date of the department.

Governor Thompson also signed a bill which prohibits day care centers, part-day child care facilities, and day care homes from releasing custody of children to people other than those specified by their guardians. The bill was introduced in response to a case in Springfield where a child was kidnapped from a day care center.

The measure takes effect immediately.

Another bill, which allows the Director of the Department of Children and Family Services to waive the current limit of eight children per adoptive home, will allow for more adoptive placements.

Another section of this bill refines changes made to the adoption law in 1981 regarding proof for terminating parental rights to reflect changes made by the U. S. Supreme Court.

Announce Citizens' Advocate Program

Illinois Lieutenant Governor George H. Ryan traveled to Alton, Mattoon and Effingham, Thursday to announce the expansion of his Office's Citizens' Advocate Program. Ryan also was in Mr. Carmel, Lawrenceville and Mt. Vernon, Friday.

"I am very pleased to announce that my office is now able to handle a larger number of constituents' questions, problems and complaints," Ryan said. "I feel it is my duty as lieutenant governor to extend the services of my office to as many citizens of this state as I can. As lieutenant governor, I have the authority and the flexibility to call on all state departments and agencies for assistance in responding to the concerns of our constituents."

"With the addition to my full-time government relations staff of trained interns and the installation of a toll-free hotline telephone, my office will thoroughly and expeditiously handle a large volume of constituent cases. I would encourage anyone who has a question, problem or complaint about their government to call or write my office."

"We certainly cannot guarantee that all our responses will be favorable to the constituent, but we will guarantee an accurate response with a clear explanation."

The Lieutenant Governor's Citizen's Advocate Program is designed specifically to:

- Serve as a clearinghouse for information relating to services to which citizens are entitled.
- Cooperate with and direct state agencies to ensure that the services to which citizens are entitled are, in fact, delivered.
- To investigate specific complaints concerning the delivery of services by state agencies and to report deficiencies to the head of the agencies involved and,

No need for 'cop-killer' bullets

U.S. Rep. Mario Biaggi of New York is a former policeman who was wounded 10 times while on duty. This gives him 10 good reasons for sponsoring a bill to outlaw teflon-coated bullets, which are called "cop-killers" because they can penetrate the bulletproof vests often worn by law enforcement officers.

There is no reason why bullets that can penetrate 1½ inches of cold-rolled steel need to be on the shelves of sporting goods stores or elsewhere on the civilian market.

Yet the Biaggi bill is by no means assured of easy passage in Congress. It has aroused the resistance of the National Rifle Association and other organizations which oppose legislation that hints at gun control.

The NRA bases its opposition on principle more than any affinity for the teflon-coated bullet. Such legislation, says an NRA lobbyist, attempts to control criminal behavior by controlling an object. Ban a bullet, this argument goes, and the next step is banning guns.

We understand why the NRA takes its position but do not agree with it. Surely legislation can be adopted to control especially dangerous ammunition or weapons without lowering all barriers to the kind of gun control the NRA fears.

The Biaggi bill is supported by the International Association of Police Chiefs, which has noted that half of the nation's 500,000 police officers are using bullet-proof vests which could not stop the cop-killer bullets.

Some ammunition manufacturers have voluntarily abandoned the manufacture of the bullets. A federal law would persuade the rest to follow suit.

Congress should stand up to the gun lobby on this issue and pass the Biaggi bill.

Immunizations are doing the job

Parents deserve a resounding round of applause. For the first time in history, we are sending our children back to school so well immunized against major diseases that they are experiencing historically low numbers of vaccine-preventable diseases.

Fewer cases of measles, rubella (German measles), mumps, tetanus and polio were reported in 1981 than ever before in history and reported cases of diphtheria and pertussis (whooping cough) were near record lows. During the current school year or upcoming year in Granite City's case, the totals are expected to decrease even more.

In most school districts, more than 95 percent of the children entering kindergarten have been fully immunized.

It took a great deal of work by parents, health agencies, doctors, schools, educators, the Illinois Department of Public Health and others to reduce the risk of these dreaded diseases among our children. They should be commended.

Attention now must turn to providing equal protection to our 2-, 3- and 4-year-olds, many of whom remain unprotected in day-care centers or at home with mom.

A bill requiring children attending day care centers to show proof of being up-to-date in their immunizations now is on the governor's desk. We urge him to sign it and help in the war to eliminate these diseases in Illinois.

Lower unemployment good news

There was some more good news on the employment side Saturday at the Illinois Department of Labor announced that July unemployment had dropped to 19.1 percent in the preliminary July figures, a decline from 21.3 percent in June's final figures.

Good news, but still too high. No specific industry was cited as the reason for the decrease; rather the report noted "mixed activity" leading to an overall reduction of unemployment in the state.

The figures should decline further in late August or early September as hundreds of college students leave the labor force and return to school.

We are watching the economic indicators with interest. Production is increasing at Granite City Steel, but with fewer employees than at its past level. The "leaner" approach is bringing the steel mill back onto the profit side of the ledger, but is doing little for the unemployment picture. Not that we blame Granite City Steel. Without profits, there can be no plant for long.

We welcome Heidman and Callier Steel, but wonder whether we are trading job for job as Granite City Steel cuts back on its steel slitting and processing, jolting that work out to the new firms springing up.

A.O. Smith will be a welcome neighbor, but the lengthy timetable until it opens provides little immediate relief.

Housing is bouncing around. We hear of interest rises, state backed bonds to reduce interest, city plans for a program to reduce interest, etc. The bottom line is what the realtors tell us about the housing market, "better, but not too great yet."

The unemployment figures show that Granite City still is the problem area of the Metro-East region, at least in the number of workers still actively seeking work. Only 14.1 percent of East St. Louis' workforce is listed as unemployed and Belleville is at 17.2 percent.

Granite City seems to be slowly coming back from hibernation. We hope the trend continues and look forward to the time when unemployment here is at or below the statewide average, which was 11.7 percent in July.

Quad-Cityans shopping at Crossroads Plaza Sunday were asked about the Illinois Department of Corrections proposal to release criminals from the State's prisons early because of overcrowding. Their reactions follow:

Linda Bogovich, Granite City

"Overcrowding in prisons is definitely a problem. I'm in favor of putting more money in the prisons rather than releasing hardened criminals. If more money is made available, it should be spent on expanding prisons, nothing else."

Linda Nanney, Granite City

"No, I don't think that's a good solution (letting prisoners go early). Evidently, they did something to get there, so I think they should stay there until they pay society back. If they let them out, we're doing away with the punishment. Without punishment, there's no deterrent to crime."

Eddie Robertson, Granite City

"I don't think it's right for criminals to get out of prison early, whether it's crowded or not. If it's crowded they should have to live with the overcrowding. Prison isn't supposed to be a nice place. I think money should go for other things, things for honest people, before it goes to better a criminal's life."

Mary Kiselke, Granite City

"Heck no. I don't think they should let criminals out before their time. When they do that they're jeopardizing the lives of the law-abiding public. We should do whatever it takes to keep them (criminals) in jail."

Backs both Mayor Sasyk and John Bellcoff

To the Editor:

To all that Nick Strange of the Concerned Citizens group said concerning John Bellcoff's qualifications to be mayor of Madison, I concur. That is, if the present mayor decides not to run again, which I think he will.

Mayor Mike Sasyk did a lot of very good things for Madison, so let's give credit where credit is due. It's true that no one can please all the people, because he did not pass out silver dollars on a gold platter, is no reason for me to carry chips on their shoulders.

There were some things like, "home rule," which I did not like and would not give my vote for, then when the shopping center was so long getting underway, some were wondering what was happening? Could it be tied up by some reason?

The same thought was expressed about the cable funds, regardless of the thoughts or rumors or allegations, the mayor came through with the shopping center and the cable is well underway.

Then we had the utility tax sore spot that no one exactly likes, but if you strip the city of all its income, you will not have a good fire department, police department or a street department and we will go down like East St. Louis to ashes and rubble.

Don't put John Bellcoff in the mayor's office too fast. If the present mayor should not run, then I will be for Mr. Bellcoff.

He has been above all others, because he has been around the city hall for a long time. Therefore, it could be said "he has been raised in the house of political magicians and should have learned many lessons from wise masters of political jargon. I mean, he should know his way around."

If Mayor Sasyk does not run, it's a good bet that he will give the political nod to Bellcoff for many reasons, then Mr. Bellcoff will have to give up the quiet of a nice bank office and job, as he can't hold both due to a conflict of interest.

Let's not put John Bellcoff in the mayor's office too fast. There could be a dark horse turn up, who would run very well. Who knows? Until two better choices come along, its Sasyk number one and Bellcoff number two.

Volunteering is good for the volunteer too

To the Editor:

Volunteering has always been as American as apple pie. Volunteerism - as both a word and a concept - has become so firmly entrenched in American life that it has earned its stripes as an official entry in the dictionary.

And now the secret is out - a secret that few talk about, but every volunteer knows about: volunteering is good for the volunteer, too.

There are one million agencies and organizations in the U.S. volunteering does not replace workers, rather it creates new employment. The average volunteer donates about four hours a week.

The Federal and State governments have modified their applications for job seekers to list their volunteer experiences. President Reagan recognized the vital role volunteering plays in American life, when he designated 1983 as, "The Year of the Volunteer."

Supports the overthrow of Castro government

To the Editor:

Neutralizing the Marxist threat in Central America will not be achieved by conducting counter-insurgency operations in El Salvador or any other Latin American country.

The immediate solution lies with the destruction of the current government of Cuba. That is the real problem. Unless we neutralize the controlling authority there, Communist aggression in Latin America will not be stopped, no matter how much support we give to disguised line crossers - a technique used successfully in the Korean War against the Chinese Communists.

Infiltration could be effected through the Guantanamo Bay area and by other appropriate covert means with small groups or individuals at irregular extended intervals. An operation of this nature would be supported from without but acting violently from within against the country's political, social, economic, military, and civil vulnerabilities to bring about its internal destruction. Once this mission is accomplished to preclude future threats to Cuba, immediate action should be taken to bring it into the Union as the 51st state.

The Labor Day parade grand marshal will be Buddy W. Davis, United Steelworkers of America District 34 director.

Other dignitaries to take part in the parade, being called "Solidarity Day III," will be State Sen. Sam Vadalabene, State Rep. Sam Wolf and Mayors Paul Schuler of Granite City, Mike Sasyk of Madison and Tyrone Echols of Venice.

The parade is expected to stretch more than a mile and should be bigger than the previous two marches the last two years, Reiske said. He is parade co-chairman with David J. Kins, president of United Steelworkers of America, Local 4094.

The parade will start downtown at the intersection of Niedringhaus and Edison avenues at 10 a.m. and travel down Madison Avenue to Granite City High School.

Parade participants will begin assembling two hours earlier, at 8 a.m., at Niedringhaus and Edison avenues.

The parade will feature the Venice-Madison American Legion Post 307 color guard. The unit serves as the official flag bearer for the Legion's Fifth Division, its Madison-Bond Counties Council and the Legion's 32nd District.

Units from the Amvets and American Legion Tri-City Post 113 also will be participating.

The three bands to stir up the union spirit will be the Shrine Oriental Band, the Granite City High School Band and a group of professional musicians to be provided by Musicians' Protective Union Local 717.

Local union will travel the parade route in floats that will be judged from a reviewing platform stationed at the First Assembly of God Church parking lot at 23rd Street and Grand Avenue.

Trophies will be awarded to the float best demonstrating the parade's "Solidarity" theme, the best marching unit and to the union judged to have the greatest percentage of members participating in the Labor Day event.

Judges will be the Rev. R.T. Shea, pastor of St. Margaret Mary Catholic Church; the Rev. Don Pierson, pastor of Nameoki Presbyterian Church, and the Rev. Dale Edwards, pastor of the First Assembly of God Church.

At the parade's conclusion, the traditional tug-of-war contest will pit unions in a test of strength. Both men and women will compete.

Organizations wishing to join the Labor Day parade are being urged to contact Reiske or Kins at 877-4330 or 432-1130.

GC sports

formance when school does resume," Federa said.

The IHSA bylaw further states that regularly-scheduled practices of the normal length and frequency may be conducted during the period when school is not fully operated under five points.

Initially, the policy states that practices must be conducted for the same length and same time of day as if school were in progress.

Secondly, practices must be approved by the local board of education and they must be conducted by appropriately qualified personnel who are assigned those duties when school is fully operating.

And finally, the practices must be conducted in such manner that assures the health and safety of the participants and must be conducted by personnel regularly assigned those duties.

Granite City High School football coach Tom Wyrostek said the delay of starting school has not affected his team too much.

"There's really not too much to say right now," Wyrostek said. "There's no strike, just a delay, so we continue to practice. If there's a strike, things may change."

Unlike other sports, the IHSA requires high school football teams to get a minimum of 14 days of practice before a team begins its season. That requirement is a safety precaution to ensure that athletes don't take the field ill-prepared.

Having started Aug. 17, the earliest the Warriors' 10th day of practice is slated for this afternoon. A called strike now may not fill the IHSA 14-day requirement and could jeopardize its first game, which is slated for Sept. 9.

If a strike did evolve after Friday, the day of the Warriors' 14th day of practice, Wyrostek's squad would have practiced enough to meet the IHSA requirement.

After the 14-day requirement is satisfied — even if a strike then evolves — athletes could compete, as long as there is school the day of the contest.

EOC problems deepen as payday Friday missed

Friday was a payless payday for most employees of the Madison County Economic Opportunities Commission (EOC) as the commission did not have enough money to meet payroll and is not likely to have enough for at least a week.

Gene Marelli, director of finance, said the cash flow of the agency was about $38,000 short of what was needed to meet the salaries of 140 employees.

At first, all employees were told they would not be paid, but the Illinois Department of Commerce and Community Affairs objected, saying that department released $120,000 to the weatherization program to see that 291 homes not weatherized to specifications are completed properly and that carpenters and weatherization people paid under that program must be paid.

"We imposed strict controls to see that those funds cannot be used to pay salaries for employees," according to Thornton Ridinger, chief of the Office of Energy and Community Service for the IDCCA.

Seniors may compete for scholarships

High school seniors with exceptional leadership skills can compete for more than $200,000 in scholarships this fall in the national Century III Leaders program.

Applications, which must be completed by Oct. 21, may be obtained through local high school principals' offices starting in mid-September.

"I entered because I wanted to compare myself against my peers, gain some peer experience in leadership skills and obtain financial aid for college," said Taylor Smith of Florissant, the 1983 national winner. Taylor calls the program "one of the most memorable experiences" he's ever had.

Sponsored by the National Association of Secondary School Principals, which represents more than 34,000 secondary school administrators, the Century III Leaders program is designed to encourage today's young people to think not only about the challenges they will face as adults but also how these challenges should be handled.

Students are judged on their leadership abilities, school and community involvement and awareness of current events.

To enter the 1984 Century III Leaders competition, high school seniors must obtain an application from their principal this fall. All high schools are mailed entry kits early in September; however, general information now is available by writing Century III Leaders, Box 33008, Washington, D.C. 20033.

After completing the application and preparing a "Projection for Innovative Leadership" on a particular challenge facing the nation in its third century, each applicant will take a current events exam.

The selection process begins at the local high school level in each state and the District of Columbia. School winners advance to the state level, where the top contenders are interviewed by a selection committee and two winners and two runners-up are named in each state. The winners get $1,500 scholarships and all-expense-paid trips to the National Century III Leaders conference March 2 to 5, 1984, in Colonial Williamsburg, Va., where additional scholarships are awarded, including a $10,000 top prize. Runners-up at the top prize level each receive a $500 scholarship.

While in Williamsburg, Century III Leaders hear noted national speakers and participate in seminars and discussion groups. They also develop recommendations on specific problems which are forwarded to the White House.

"My experience in Williamsburg was the most enjoyable and positive four days I have ever spent," comments Peggy McKown, one of West Virginia's state winners. "Knowing that the next century is in the hands of leaders such as the 101 I met makes me very proud to be a part of my generation and my country."

All state finalists and runners-up become members of the Century III Leaders Alumni program. In addition to receiving a newsletter, alumni may apply for grants of up to $5,000 (beginning in their senior year of college) or postgraduate studies or to support research in a public service agency. As many as six alumni grants are awarded each year.

Funding for Century III Leaders is provided by Shell Companies Foundation. Shell has supported the program since 1976 when it was called "Bicentennial Seniors."

POWER MOWER TAKEN

A power lawnmower was stolen Thursday from the residential garage of Mrs. Madora Shaw in the 2100 block of Illinois Avenue. The mower is red and white.

Ridinger said of the shortage of funds in the EOC budget was not caused by the state. "I don't know what's going on," he said, adding that he received calls from employees and inquired, finding out that there were insufficient funds to meet the payroll. "As far as other problems (other than weatherization) are concerned, I don't know what they are," he added.

Reuben Williams, executive director of the EOC, is out of town through next Thursday and could not be reached for comment.

Morelli said they EOC employees were told to expect the money later this week that was due them last Friday. He said they were told "This is what you have to live with in a social service agency." Some employees recall similar payless paydays several years ago, he said.

Ridinger hinted that the EOC may have more problems than the cash flow crisis. In June, IDCCA ordered an audit of the weatherization program and found problems. He said there had been "important, not minor, incidents" alleged.

A check of homes weatherized under the program showed that 291, approximately 90 percent of those done, had not been weatherized properly and additional controls were imposed as new money was pumped in to straighten out those houses.

Ridinger told the Press-Record in June, if they don't get their act together in the next quarter (three months), we will find another agency to operate it (the Weatherization Program).

Since then, Ridinger announced that the audit had been "significantly expanded" into "problems with the energy assistance program and a lack of payments to utility companies."

The audit is expected to end soon and a draft audit will be presented to EOC about Sept. 2. The agency will then have 30 days to respond, Ridinger explained.

Article names wrong defendant

An article in Thursday's Press-Record incorrectly confused two similar names and said that the Madison County state's attorney had intentionally pursued criminal charges against a Bruce Cook, knowing that Cook was innocent.

The article did not refer to prominent St. Clair County attorney Bruce Cook, State Central Committee member of the Democratic party of the 21st Congressional District. The Press-Record regrets the error.

The highly-respected attorney was in no way connected with the case, or with the ongoing feud between State's Attorney Don Weber and Belleville lawyer Amiel Cueto, who made the charges against Weber.

Weber announced last week that he intends to sue Cueto for $31 million on 37 separate incidents of alleged libel.

Senate race Approaching levels of disaster

By Al Manning

SPRINGFIELD — U.S. Sen. Charles Percy undoubtedly will be a tough challenger Tom Corcoran in a general election, but the conservative nature of the Republican primary casts doubt on the nomination.

The turnout in the Republican primary probably will be small next year, and the voters definitely will have a more conservative tinge than the population as a whole.

Corcoran, the congressman from Ottawa, is a favorite of the New Right while Percy has often been at odds with the conservatives in the party.

The last two Republican primaries, although not paralleling the Percy-Corcoran situation, ought to offer some guidelines for the upcoming election.

The battle for the Senate nomination in 1980 was a three-way fight between then-Lt. Gov. Dave O'Neal, Attorney General William Scott and Peoria Mayor Richard Carver.

Although the primary results were clouded by Scott's trial, it showed clearly that the most moderate of the trio — Carver — was not well received by rank-and-file Republican voters.

O'Neal, the gun-toting sheriff of St. Clair County, received 424,000 votes, Scott, undergoing trial for federal income tax charges, had 382,000 votes, and Carver, the Bailey-Deardoff media candidate, had only 245,000 votes.

The 1982 campaign for lieutenant governor was another three-way contest.

George Ryan, a conservative, appeared middle-of-the-road because he positioned himself between a conservative ideologue, Don Totten, and a liberal, Susan Catania.

Ryan, with the strong support of Gov. Jim Thompson, received 287,000 votes; Catania had 188,000; Totten got 152,000.

For all practical purposes, every vote for Totten last time can be counted for Corcoran in 1984.

Catania supporters undoubtedly prefer Percy, but there is a question about how many of them will vote again in a Republican primary.

It looks as though the heavy action next year will be in the Democratic primary — between Walter Mondale and John Glenn for the presidential nomination and between Paul Simon, Alex Seitz, Roland Burris and Phil Rock for the Senate nomination — so the nominal Democrats who crossed over and voted in the GOP primary for Catania are likely to come back to vote in the Democratic primary.

Figure that, Percy will get half of the Catania vote with the other half not voting in the GOP primary.

Thus, the real battle will be for the voters who cast ballots last time for Ryan. Ryan succeeded largely because Thompson and the Republican establishment supported him for the nomination. The central issue was whether the governor had the right to choose his own running mate for lieutenant governor, and clearly the voters said he did.

But Thompson is not nearly as popular as he was two years ago, and recommending a candidate for lieutenant governor certainly is not the same as pushing an incumbent U.S. senator.

According to a poll conducted in a suburban county by McKeon and Associates of Illinois, Thompson's job performance ratings have dropped dramatically. The unfavorable rating is so high that it's questionable how much good the governor could do for any candidate.

DROUGHT HITTING HARD Approaching levels of disaster

By Cheryl Fargo

SPRINGFIELD — If you travel south of Interstate 55 in Illinois, you're likely to see corn with dry, curled brown leaves and "firing" stalks — stalks that are dead halfway up the corn plant.

North of I-80, cornfields have their familiar green color and the leaves are hanging down. They've gotten rain and milder temperatures. Central and southern Illinois hasn't and it shows.

A corn plant damaged by heat and drought may not have formed ears. Even if it has, the ears are likely to have very few kernels.

The weather has been erratic in the last 140 days, within even a mile of each other may be very different.

"I've heard farmers say they have one field that will make 30 to 40 bushels and another down the road that may make 140 bushels," says Gary Kepley, assistant crop statistician for the Illinois Crop Reporting Service.

The verdict is still out on soybeans. Rain this week could revive some of the crop. But, without more rainfall, beans may go the same way much of the state's corn has, Kepley said.

When farmers met at the Illinois State Fair last week, sooner or later the talk always got around to how their crop was faring. Jasper County farmer George Dallmier, for example, doesn't expect corn yields any higher than 20 bushels per acre on his 400-acre grain farm.

"This is as close to being a disaster as I've ever seen," said Dallmier — who, ironically, couldn't get his corn planted until the middle of June because of excessive rain. "It will be a hard matter for me to meet my bill."

Dallmier isn't alone, but neither is he typical. The drought problem is scattered throughout the state, and northern Illinois farmers are in much better shape than those in the south and west.

Carroll County farmer Lew DeGraff is more fortunate.

"We're better off than they are here (in central Illinois)," DeGraff said, estimating his 400 acres will average 125 bushels per acre. "It appears we're in the best part of the state."

Tom Curl, who farms 1,100 acres near Clinton, said, "Things look mighty bad. It's so much drier than it was in 1980 — that's when I had an 85-bushel average. We won't make 100 bushels an acre this year."

Curl says the problem represents a "catch-22" for farmers who didn't sign up for the PIK program — they'll get higher prices, but only if they have something to sell.

"I'm quite thankful I won't have PIK," Curl said. "It's a tool to help ourselves and a step to counter the bad effects of the 1977 and 1981 farm bills. I feel sorry for people not in PIK."

LaSalle County farmer Kenneth Stremela, who has 500 acres, says half of his county is in disastrous shape, but the other half will have a crop. "I happen to be fortunate because I have good black soil. We'll be lucky — but nothing like some farmers."

John Hamm of McDonough says he's not so fortunate. "Things are terrible and getting worse each day. We're at 70 to 80 bushels now and going down hill."

Palmyer farmer Gale Cole says his location is his problem. "Things get better as I go north. But right now, I'm looking at a 50 percent yield reduction in corn."

The Illinois Crop Reporting Service says crop conditions have continued to deteriorate since the Aug. 11 U.S. Department of Agriculture's report which estimated Illinois' average corn yield at 102 bushels per acre.

Even U.S. Secretary of Agriculture John Block admits crop conditions were not adequately reflected in that report and have continued to deteriorate.

Kepley said the latest assessment made by the Crop Reporting Service, had 14 percent of the corn crop in the state in good condition, 48 percent fair, 34 percent poor and 4 percent a failure.

"We're making quite a few comparisons to 1980, our most recent bad year," Kepley said. But even in 1980, none of the crop was rated a failure at this point in the season. At the same time in 1980, 9 percent of the corn crop was rated excellent, 22 percent good, 45 percent fair and only 24 percent poor.

"The difference is we had good precipitation in July and August in 1980. We haven't seen that."

Illinois Agriculture Director Larry Wierse estimates the drought and high temperatures have cost the state 25 percent of its yearly $8 billion in total farm sales.

"I'm convinced we'll be well off that $8 billion," Wierse said. "We've got to be approaching levels of disaster that we haven't seen in many years."

Madison holding burglary suspect

A man taken into custody by Madison police at 10 p.m. Saturday was being held Sunday for investigation of the burglary of two tractor-trailer trucks, parked in the Ace Doran parking lot on Fox Brothers Road, Madison.

One of the truck drivers, William Lowery of Chertle, Pa., initially notified Venice police that someone was in the cab of his truck after he saw a cigarette being lighted by the person inside.

Police contacted Madison officers who alleged seeing a man climbing over the fenced parking area and one officer pursued the man on foot.

A Venice sergeant then drove his squad car along Market Street, blocking off the escape route of the suspect, who was captured by the two Madison officers on Market Street at the rear of the Steelhaulers office building.

Certain items in the suspect's possession were alleged to have been taken from one of the vehicles. Ven windows were pried on both trucks, which had been ransacked. Inventories were being compiled by the truckers to determine what items were missing.

PRESS-RECORD

Two New Teams in '84

Future looks bright for Inter-City baseball

By ROGER KRAMER

Despite declining interest in players and sponsors in Inter-City League baseball teams in recent years, it appears the 53-year-old league will continue into 1984.

Inter-City League President Earl Schardan said Friday teams from O'Fallon and Fairview Heights and a third team from Granite City have expressed interest in joining the league.

Those three teams and McDonald's of Granite City, the Granite City Chiefs and the Maryville Red Sox would make the league a six-team league and insure its survival for at least one more year.

However, the league will probably lose its strongest team, the Edwardsville Nationals, next season. The Nationals, the 1982 league champions, and this year's regular season champions, will probably enter the Montclair League or become independents next season.

Schardan said if the league had no more than four teams in 1984, there would be no league in 1984. With five teams, the league would have to increase entry fees, but six or more teams would keep entry fees down and make the league more competitive.

"Both O'Fallon and Fairview are going to have teams on younger players who have come out of their legion programs," Schardan said. "They are going to be strong additions to the league."

Schardan hopes the league can begin a team in Troy next season. Troy was formerly in the league but left because of lack of interest. The next league meeting will be held in September to discuss the future of the league.

"We're going to contact other teams who aren't playing in a league and see if they would be interested in joining our league," Schardan said. "We don't want to steal any teams from any other league. The more teams we can get for the league, the better we'll be."

There are plenty of players who want to play ball. It's a matter of finding people who will manage and sponsor the teams," Schardan said.

Last year, the Inter-City League tried to merge with the 3-M League, but the 3-M league didn't take up the offer because of the fear of the better teams robbing the team of their players, he said.

Even with the hope of new teams in the league, the managers and the officers of the league will have to solve the several problems before the league can return to its past glory.

This season, the league began with five teams, Edwardsville, McDonald's, Maryville, the Chiefs and the Corral Li-cou Cowboys of Granite City. By the end of May, the Cowboys left the league. Manager Ken Crawford said mounting apathy among players led him to dissolve the team.

Apathy is not the only problem the league has had. The quality of competition in the league was low this year. Edwardsville easily won the regular season championship with a 20-2 record. The only team that defeated the Nationals was McDonald's.

During the regular season, neither Maryville nor the Chiefs were able to defeat Edwardsville or McDonald's. Maryville finally defeated McDonald's last Sunday in a first round game of the league playoffs.

According to Nationals' manager Joe Mueller, the lack of competition in the league is the main reason his players want to leave the league.

"Some of my players have told me that they wouldn't play for us next year if we were in the Inter-City League. Right now, I would say the Inter-City League's teams would be good 3-M League teams. My bench is better than any of the teams in the league now," Mueller said.

"Right now, we're just too powerful for the Inter-City League. We've played a lot of the Montclair League teams, and we're pretty competitive with them. The Montclair League has more teams and takes care of its teams better," Mueller said.

Another reason Edwardsville is considering leaving the league is because the Inter-City League does not offer Wednesday baseball while the Montclair League does.

"There's no way you can become a better team by just playing on weekends," Mueller said. "You have to have four games a week to get better. Our players enjoy good competition, and we're not getting it in this league."

Mueller said that McDonald's is an excellent team — when all of its players are at the game, but the lack of player interest keeps McDonald's from getting better.

"You have to have 18 good players to have a team, and you have to play your players a lot to keep them playing. The good thing about the Chiefs and Maryville is that they do have enough people for every game. But it's still hard to get up to play them because they don't have a lot of ability," Mueller said.

"In the four years we've been in the Inter-City League, it has become worse. I really don't see much of a future for the league," Mueller said.

On the other hand, an Inter-City League without the Nationals could be a blessing in disguise for the league.

Dennis Gurkin, the manager of the Chiefs, said, "It may be better for both teams if Edwardsville leaves because Edwardsville would have better competition, and the other teams wouldn't have their heads beaten in by Edwardsville. They're head and shoulders over everyone else right now," Gurkin said.

The managers of the three remaining teams, Gurkin, Ray Harris of McDonald's and Randy Robbins of Maryville, all would like to see the Inter-City League continue.

Harris and Gurkin both believe finding sponsors and managers in the Metro-East area who are interested in working with a team would make the league strong again.

"Right now, it doesn't look good for the league," Harris said. "If we can get some guys who want to play ball and get some people who want to sponsor and manage them, we could get a lot of teams in the league."

Two major drains on the league have been the rise of slow-pitch softball and the advent of the 7-Up-Spanky's baseball league. Players who don't want to play baseball have left for the slow-pitch leagues, while Spanky's have picked up many of the best players in Edwardsville and Granite City.

Harris indicated he is looking for a new sponsor and a new manager for next season. Harris said he was willing to help the new manager and may manage himself if he can find a good sponsor and can't find another manager.

Harris is also trying to help people in Cahokia start a team the league next season.

"We should have a team next year, and if we can get a some more teams to get in the league, we could have a good league next year," Harris said.

Harris thought about putting his team in the Montclair League, but the expense of traveling prompted him to scrap that plan.

All three managers said they may put their teams in the 3-M league if the Inter-City League folds, but all three would rather be in the Inter-City League.

"I know all the managers want to stay in the league if we can have one next year," Robbins said. "I don't think we can go one with only four or five teams, but I think there are enough players for a few more teams."

"Last year, we had the same problem, and we were able to solve it. This year, I don't have the same feeling," Robbins said.

"I would hate to see it fold," Gurkin said. "If we can get some more people interested, I think the league will get a lot better."

McDonald's forfeits; Sox meet E'ville

By JIM WOODCOCK

MARYVILLE — The Maryville Red Sox may only be 7-18, but strange things happen in 2-18 clubs when it is playoff time in the Inter-City League.

At least Sox Manager Randy Robbins thought it was strange when McDonald's of Granite City only sent eight players to Maryville for the deciding first-round playoff bout.

"Beats me," Robbins said of the McDonald's player shortage. "I've never seen a team only come up with eight players in a playoff game before."

Robbins, however, pregame Robbins with a short afternoon. And more important, it accommodated the Red Sox with a ticket to advance into another round of the Inter-City League playoffs.

McDonald's waited as long as it could for just one more player, but that player never showed up. So the Sox were awarded a 1-0 forfeit triumph, while McDonalds were thumped out of the playoff picture.

McDonald's looked to be the first-

"I really felt like we could have handled them. And we would have rather played than take the forfeit — but we'll take the forfeit."

Randy Robbins
Red Sox manager

The Red Sox will now proceed to meet the Edwardsville Nationals in a best-of-three confrontation.

When that will be, according to Robbins, is not yet known. The format has been changed for a twilight Sunday day and if a third game was needed, it is slated for Labor Day.

"We are trying to reschedule the whole thing so we play twice Wednesday night and maybe play the third game on Sunday," Robbins said.

Robbins said the games, when scheduled, will be at Hoppe Park in Edwardsville.

McDonald's looked to be the first-round favorites in the playoffs, but the two teams split a double-header in the first game. That forced Sunday's game to determine who will face the Nationals.

Robbins figured that his club could have beaten McDonald's, though, if that ninth player would have arrived.

"I really felt we could have handled them," Robbins said. "And we would rather have played than take the forfeit — but we'll take the forfeit."

Robbins had Mike Nelson penciled in to start on the mound for the Sox, while Tim Kirksey figured to throw for McDonald's.

Four GC Athletes On Squad

Team balance is key to ISU success

NORMAL —

How can Illinois State University soccer coach Bobo Fritzen be enthused about this year, when two-thirds of his 1982 players are gone? Fritzen's squad opens on the road against Northern Illinois, Thursday, Sept. 1, and will return to Hancock Stadium for the home opener Sunday, Sept. 4, as 1983 NCAA semi-finalist Southern Illinois-Edwardsville comes to town.

The basis of the Redbirds' balanced attack develops from a strong nucleus of six returning starters, three of whom were freshmen last year. They will be aided by a recruiting class featuring Venezuelan National Youth Team member Leo Guzman, Illinois all-star Jim Titis of Wheaton (Warrenville) and midfielder Fritz Brewer of Granite City (South), which won the IHSA 1982 state title.

Leading the way in ISU's sixth season of soccer competition will be team's lone seniors and co-captains, forward David James of Granite City (South) and goalie Matt Clark of Mt. Prospect (Forest View).

James, a three-year letterman, is the Redbirds' leading active career scorer and assist man. The opens on the road against Northern Illinois, Thursday, Sept. 1, and will return to Hancock Stadium for the home opener Sunday, Sept. 4, as 1983 NCAA semi-finalist Southern Illinois-Edwardsville comes to town.

"Scoring is the least of my concerns with Bowers, James and Vickers on the field," said Fritzen. "They all can score and I'm not worried about the offense as long as we have tough defense and systematic play."

Fritzen is counting on a pair of returning defensive specialists. Fritzen expects two-time letterman Mike Blas's help on defense will come from sophomore James Kelahan of Granite City (South).

"Defense is the component necessary to win a game, so naturally I'm going to stress it," said Fritzen. "If we have the defense the offense will come along."

Fritzen's overall philosophy concentrates on aspects of the game that are influential in the outcome.

"This year I am going to stress the controllable factors of the game — mental, physical, technical and team work," said Fritzen.

ISU's 1983 schedule includes 10-time national champion St. Louis University, 11-time NAIA champion Quincy College, 1973 Division II champion Missouri, St. Louis and 1983 Division I playoff qualifiers Eastern Illinois and Evansville.

"This is the toughest schedule we've ever had and it will help us get national recognition if we pull an upset," said Fritzen.

"We are still unknown to the big teams with all-American, but I think we are just as good. Other teams won't take us as a serious challenge and we could be a definite giant killer as a result," said Fritzen.

Schrader wins USAC Midget benefit

By JOE SENTER

for the Press-Record

Kenny Schrader won the 1983 USAC Midget Auto Race, Friday night at Godfrey Speedway in Godfrey. The race benefited United Cerebral Palsy.

Schrader, driving the Nick's S.O.S. Garage #1 car, started back in 15th place of the 26-lap grid on the one-quarter mile high bank dirt track. At the drop of the green flag, Warren Mockler took the lead only having to restart after a nine-car pile up in the first turn knocking off Terry Wente.

On the restart, Arnie Knepper went out on lap one with a broken water line on the Joe Martinez #31 car.

Another restart was taken by Mockler with Rich Vogel in close second, when Kevin Doty took the lead on lap five and Vogler took over on lap seven and led until lap 26, when he went out with coil problems.

This put Schrader in the lead when he had worked his way up. Mel Kenyon went out on lap #45 with magnum problems. Ken Nichols flipped his #0 car in turn #1 on lap #55, but was unhurt and restarted.

On lap #58 Warren Mockler flipped his #7 mount, but was unhurt and was out for the night, when he and Mike Wente tangled in the #1 turn.

Danny Frye Jr. was making a hard charge to the front, when he ran over the inside track marker, tires almost flipping his #20 car while attempting to pass

Mike Wente for 2nd.

He had to restart on the rear after bringing out the yellow, but still finished 5th. The Trophy Dash taken by Gene Genetton, while heats were won by Steve Knepper, who led all the way.

Danny Frye took the second heat, with Terry Wente in the Skool Bandit #33 taking the third heat and John Andretti taking the fourth.

The Semi was won by Gene Genetton with Mockler in second and Steve Cannon in 3rd.

Trittschuh helped the Cougars to post a 3-0 shutout of South Florida.

Trittschuh played 19 minutes in the first half and 22 minutes of the second half to register nearly 42 minutes in his first collegiate game.

To quote SIUE Sports Information Director Steve Weiler, who called the Press-Record Sunday with the results, "Trittschuh really played well."

Weiler also complimented another Illinois athlete John Stone as having "an outstanding game also."

The Cougars scored their first goal at the 22:50 mark as Dan O'Keefe headed in a corner kick from Bruce Bellinger.

SIUE's second score came as Bill Stallings deflected a shot past the SF goalie. Stallings' goal came at 51:16 on a deflected shot from Steve Schell.

At St. Louis General Meeting

Barr, Kracher inducted into USSF Hall

The United States Soccer Federation has announced the induction of George Barr and Frank Kracher, prominent figures in the sport for many years, into the USSF National Soccer Hall of Fame. The inductions were made recently at the USSF general meeting held in St. Louis last week.

Barr, one of the outstanding professional players in the American Soccer League in the 1930's and 1940's, and Kracher, a former USSF Vice President who has served the sport of soccer in virtually every capacity, joined 150 Hall of Famers inducted in previous years.

The selection of Barr and Kracher was made by the USSF Hall of Fame Committee, comprised of six former Federation presidents, from among four candidates nominated for 1983 and 26 nominees from previous years. The new inductees will be honored at the USSF's 67th Annual General Meeting in St. Louis, Aug. 25-28, and presented official certificates and passes at the Hall of Fame Dinner, Aug. 27.

Barr, who was born in Edinburgh, Scotland and came to the United States at the age of 12, was one of the outstanding defenders ever to play in the American Soccer League. He became the youngest player in the ASL when he signed with Brooklyn Celtic at age 17 and was a perennial ASL All-Star. Barr, who also competed internationally with various select teams, spent most of his career playing for the Brookhattan S. C., leading the ASL club to what was once soccer's domestic triple crown; the ASL title, the USSF National Challenge Cup and the Lewis Cup.

Kracher's soccer career spans nearly his entire life.

He retired after a twenty-six year playing career in 1962 and later served with the Illinois Soccer Association in various capacities. Kracher was a USSF Vice President during 1969-70 and also a Regional Cup Commissioner.

Since 1950, when the Hall of Fame was organized by the Old Timers' Association, 150 individuals have been inducted by the Hall of Fame Committee. Presently there are 62 active members. John O. Best, Lamar Hunt and the late Joe Carcena were selected for the Hall of Fame honor in 1982.

Moonlight Ramble: A cyclist's dream

The Moonlight Ramble. Oh, how I love that annual, leisurely bicycle ride through the streets of St. Louis. This past Sunday was the 20th annual ramble in which an estimated 10,000 cyclists from throughout the country participated in the nighttime ramble through St. Louis.

There's something serene about riding through the streets of St. Louis at night — something almost mystical. Seldom will a cyclist ever get the opportunity to ride through a large metropolitan area with such freedom. Streets are lighted, checkpoints clearly marked with advisory personnel ready to assist should an emergency arise.

It's a cyclist's dream.

To participate in it gives the cyclist the opportunity to see St. Louis (excuse the pun) in a different light. Its towering buildings of the downtown area, its rolling neighborhoods of the near southside and even parts of Forest Park are included as part of the itinerary. It's truly a worthwhile way to spend the wee hours of the morning.

My wife and I make it a point to go every year. This year made my eighth time, fourth in a row. My wife has gone with me the last three times.

Sponsored by the Ozark Area Council of American Youth Hostels (AYH), the Moonlight Ramble is the world's largest night-time bicycle adventure.

Cyclists begin Ramble at 2 a.m. from Keiner Plaza in downtown St. Louis, long after the bustle and bustle of metropolitan St. Louis has ended for the day.

The first ramble was in 1964 when Richard Leary, an AYH member was the sole rider. Since then, the early morning event has attracted thousands of bikers from across the country.

Sports on the Run

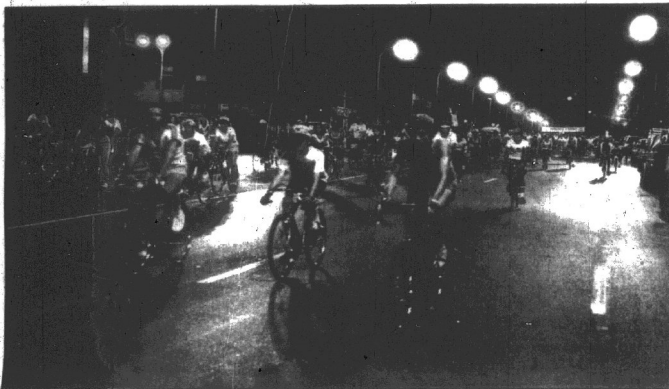

By Alan L. Gertsenacker

Usually there are two routes. A longer route for the avid cyclists which usually consists of 24-25 miles, and a shorter route for the novice which consists of approximately 10 miles.

We usually make the longer trip. Begin at about 2:15 a.m. and generally get back to Keiner Plaza sometime after 4 a.m.

It's funny, I never seem to mind the trip because it's so easy to get caught up in the surroundings. The 25 miles passes before you know it. Although Sunday afternoons are usually a disaster, fighting tired legs and insomnia.

For Wappel, training's the game

By AL BARNES for the Press-Record

He was a tiny young man when I first met him back there around 1948. But, when it came to courage and just plain guts, he was a giant.

I'm talking about Fred Wappel, a native on the near north side of St. Louis, who in his senior year at Central High School (off Grand at Fairground Park) was probably the smallest quarterback ever to play in the Public High League.

I lived in Fred's same neighborhood, around Kosuth on the Lee Line. One of Babe Ruth's long four-baggers, with the aid of a very strong tailwind, could have just possibly landed on the four-family flat when hit from the storied Sportman's Park at Grand and Dodier.

Central, which 50 years prior, had ruled St. Louis prep gridiron fortunes, had fallen upon bad times. The Central Red Wings, at the time, hadn't won more than two games in five years. But, with Wappel calling the signals and acting as field general, nobody but nobody, was embarrassing Central.

The Wings made every football team which played them eat its victory.

I first came in direct contact with Wappel when his fellow students at Central rallied around him to "elect him Prep Football Player of the Week" in the St. Louis Star-Times' weekly promotion at that time.

The kids out there around Natural Bridge and Grand and parts south must have collected every Star-Times delivered, for on this week, when I counted the coupon "votes," to and behold, little Fred Wappel had one of the biggest vote totals ever recorded in the very popular promotion.

I forget, now, who the defensive "prep Player of the Week" was along with Wappel, but it doesn't matter.

When the votes were totaled, Wappel was called and he promptly turned up at the sports department at the Star-Times for me to interview him and have his photo taken.

As the interview moved along, it was obvious that Wappel wanted, very much, to continue in sports and particularly, football. But, since he wasn't another Sammy Baugh, his tiny size almost surely ruled out him playing collegiate football.

"Mr. Barnes," I remember him saying sort of plaintively, "Do you think I could land a spot on a college team? Say, at a small one like at Central Methodist or Westminster?"

Of course, I wasn't about to tell him "no," but I searched my heart and mind, desperately, for something or other to divert him from hope of going out for college football.

Suddenly a solution, or possible, way out came to me: Don Faurot, all-time great football coach at the University of Missouri at Columbia and one of the winningest grid coaches of all time, had just spoken at the St. Louis Quarterback Club's Monday meeting and I had sat with him at the speaker's table.

In our conversation, in which he had casually mentioned that the Tigers' team trainer (I now forget his name) was quitting in a couple of years: Faurot bemoaned the fact that he would have to go out and find another trainer or teach one himself.

Talking to the eager Wappel, it hit me that Faurot's need might just possibly be the answer to Fred's dreams. So, I broached the subject and urged his acceptance of the idea.

At first, but not for long he rejected it. Soon he grabbed the idea and ran with it. I made a couple of phone calls and Wappel enrolled that fall at Old Missouri and has been there ever since.

I last talked to him three years ago when Coach Gary (Bo) Collins baseball team invited Columbia and handed the Tigers their first loss in 18 games.

To my amazement... and sheer delight... as I walked into his office at the new Missouri training complex he welcomed me without a second's hesitation: "Why, hello, Mr. Barnes, it's nice seeing you."

Zedolek wins archery tournaments

Tony Zedolek, an archer at Lane's Archery in Granite City, has won two archery tournaments recently, both prestigious tournaments.

Three weeks ago, Zedolek competed in the Pro-Am Tourney in Lake of the Woods Range in Irvington, Ill.

Zedolek, an amateur, defeated professionals — Steve Springman of Ben Pearson Archery and Alan Sloka of Hoyt Archery — on his way to victory.

Two weeks ago at the Illinois State Target Championships, Zedolek won the Adult AA category. That tourney was in Roodhouse, Ill., on Aug. 13 and 14.

Zedolek, 20, shoots a 50 pound PSE compound bow. He practices several nights a week at Lane Archery where he is coached by Larry Lane.

High nitrate in corn silage

By RON CORNWELL
County Farm Adviser

The topic of conversation this month has been high nitrate levels in drought-stressed corn.

Nitrates accumulate in the corn plant during periods of extended drought. The greatest risk is the livestock farmer feeding green chop corn. This is corn feed to livestock immediately after chopping.

Making silage out of drought-damaged corn greatly reduces the risk of nitrate toxicity. Ensiled damaged corn may have 40 to 60 percent lower nitrate levels than freshly cut corn.

There are several steps a livestock producer planning to feed green chop corn can take to reduce the problem. A suggestion: Feed hay or grain with the green chop to reduce the intake of green chop corn.

The highest concentration of nitrates will be in the lower part of the stalk. Cutting the stalks 12 to 18 inches above the ground will reduce the problem.

If you have a nitrate problem, you may want to consider having a laboratory analysis run on the plants to determine the nitrate level in the plants and if they are safe to feed.

Centralia Diagnostic Laboratory can run a nitrate test on corn silage samples. The lab is located at 235 N. Walnut St. in Centralia. The telephone number is 532-6701.

Don't be in a hurry to ensile drought-stricken corn. Silage should not be made until the dry matter content reaches 28 to 36 percent.

If drought-stressed corn is made into silage, it should not be tested for nitrate levels until it has gone through the ensiling process.

Best results will be obtained if the silage is tested just ahead of feeding.

Livestock producers feeding green chop will want to watch for symptoms of nitrate toxicity in their livestock.

The symptoms include heavy breathing, depressed appetite, general weakness, trembling, staggering gait and frothing from the mouth.

Appeals of tax audits, examinations

Taxpayers who disagree with the outcome of an examination or audit of their federal income tax returns have the right to appeal the decision of the examiner. In order to help taxpayers better understand their appeal rights, the Internal Revenue Service has prepared the following questions and answers:

Q. Why are some people's returns chosen for examination, while others are not?

A. Generally, the usual reason is to verify the correctness of income, exemptions, or deductions claimed on the return. Sometimes, however, returns are selected as part of a random sample under the Taxpayer Compliance Measurement Program (TCMP).

Q. What is TCMP?

A. Taxpayer Compliance Measurement Program is IRS's enforcement and research program. It is designed to measure and evaluate taxpayer compliance characteristics.

Q. If my return is selected for an examination, how will it be done?

A. The examination may be conducted by correspondence, or it may take place in your home or place of business, an Internal Revenue office, or the office of your attorney or accountant. While IRS makes the decision on the method and place, it tries to select what is appropriate for the circumstances.

Q. My return has been selected for an examination. At the time I filed the return, I lived in a different state. Must I return to that state for the examination?

A. No. You may request that your case be transferred to the district in which you presently reside.

Q. Suppose the examiner tells me I owe more money, and I don't agree. Do I have any recourse?

A. Yes, you may immediately ask to speak to the examiner's supervisor. Often, differences can be settled then and there. If not, you can take the necessary steps to have your case reviewed by an appeals officer.

Q. I'm scheduled for a meeting with an appeals officer, but there is no one there. What shall I do?

A. For a valid reason, you may ask that the meeting be postponed and rescheduled. Alternatively, if you cannot attend in person, you may be represented by your attorney, certified public accountant, or by a person enrolled to practice before the IRS.

If you decide to send a representative, you must file a power of attorney. For this purpose, you can use IRS Form 2848 or IRS Form 2848-D, available from most local IRS offices, or any other properly written power of attorney or authorization.

Q. Suppose I am still not satisfied, even after the conference with the appeals officer. What recourse do I have then?

A. If you still disagree with the Service, you can take your case to the United States Tax Court, U.S. Claims Court, District Court. These courts are independent and have no connection with IRS.

Q. I would like to know more about the appeals system. Where can I get additional information?

A. Publication 556, "Examination of Returns, Appeal Rights and Claims for Refunds," is available free from the IRS.

Formal assessment of crop damage

The State Emergency Board of the USDA, at the request of Governor James Thompson, has started formal assessment of damage to Illinois crops because of dry conditions. This action will prepare state officials if weather conditions force them to request an agriculture disaster declaration from the U.S. Department of Agriculture.

The State Drought Force also will meet in the coming days to outline necessary measures if the continued dry conditions eventually cause a drought. Members of the State Emergency Board, including representatives from the Farmers Home Administration, Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service, Cooperative Extension Service and the Soil Conservation Service, will gather technical data or "flash reports" indicating rainfall, temperatures, soil moisture, and crop conditions for the study. This information will be sent to the State Emergency Services and Disaster Agency and then on to Governor Thompson. An agriculture disaster declaration would provide for low-interest loans to farmers who can prove a crop loss of at least 30 percent. At an interest rate of eight percent, an amount equal to up to 80 percent of the actual crop loss could be loaned for a period not exceeding seven years. The eight percent interest rate would apply only to those farmers who cannot secure credit through normal channels. A rate of 13.75 percent will be charged to farmers with other credit available to them. Illinois Agriculture Director Larry Werries indicates that damage to corn and soybean crops is heavy, although the soybean yield may show a slight improvement if the weather changes within the next few days.

'Earth, Sea and Sky' among BAC's telecourse offerings

For the first time this fall, Belleville Area College will offer a laboratory science course via television.

"Earth, Sea and Sky," an introductory earth science telecourse, will introduce students to geology, meteorology, astronomy and oceanography.

Laboratories have been condensed and combined so telecourse students will participate in them just six times during the semester, in contrast to their own-campus counterparts who attend 16 labs.

Two-hour labs will meet from 9 to 11 a.m. every other Saturday, said BAC earth science instructor and mentor for the TV course, Ken Pinke.

Labs will include such things as learning to identify minerals and rocks, Pinke said. "When a student finishes the course, he will be able to pick up a rock and know how to go about identifying it," he noted.

Meteorology, oceanography and astronomy also will be addressed in lab sessions.

"Students will learn how to get more out of the nightly weather report," he said. "They learn what the words really mean, what barometers really mean."

Sections on oceanography will deal mostly with the physical aspects of the ocean floor and the mechanics of such things as tidal waves.

"We'll show them how to locate stars and we'll construct models of the solar system," Pinke added. TV course students will have the opportunity to come to campus one night during the semester for an optional session in the college's observatory.

Students will benefit from the videotapes, which take them around the country and around the world. "The tapes allow students to go places I couldn't take them," Pinke said. "They get information from those that have first-hand experience."

For example, students will visit national parks, including Yosemite, Grand Canyon, Glacier and the Smokey Mountains.

Students are taken on location after concepts have been explained, Pinke said. "For example, you learn what a geyser is, then you see one," he added.

Pinke was also excited about a recent visit to Palomar National Radio Observatory in West Virginia. That's an experience that would benefit all his students, he said.

Pinke has bachelor and master degrees from Illinois State University. He and his wife, Mary Kay, have three children. They live in Belleville.

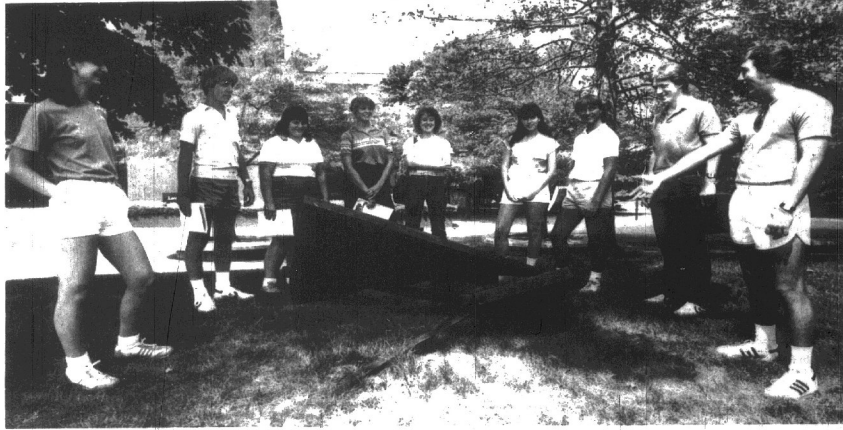

"Earth, Sea and Sky" will air at 6:15 a.m. Tuesdays and Thursdays and will be repeated at 9 and 9:30 a.m. Saturdays on Channel 9 beginning Sept. 13. Videotapes also will be available in the libraries at the college's Belleville campus and Granite City Center and in the Granite City Public Library.

Tuition is $21 per credit hour or $84 for the four-hour course. A $20 TV course fee and $10 lab fee are additional.

Other TV courses to be offered this fall include "Making It Count," an introduction to data processing; "An Invitation to Fly," Basics for the Private Pilot, a course that serves as ground school and prepares students to take the Federal Aviation Administration written examination; "U.S. History to 1877," "Understanding Human Behavior," an introduction to general psychology; "Growing Years," a child development course; and "The Home Gardener," a horticulture course.

For more information and to register, interested persons may call the telecourse hotline, 1-235-2700, extension 200. Registrations will be accepted now through Thursday, Sept. 15.

Weatherization calls being taken Thursday

Quad-City area residents may begin calling Thursday for reservations to submit their applications for Illinois Power's (IP) free home weatherization program.

The dwelling may be either owned or rented by the applicant. IP has contributed $250,000 to the Energy Assistance Foundation for this program. The two local groups receiving grants from the foundation for the weatherization program are Coordinated Youth Services and the Granite City Jaycees.

It is estimated that between 30 and 60 homes will be protected against heat loss this winter through the IP Energy Assistance Foundation.

Those who want to take part in the program should call 452-1380 for appointments to submit their applications. No resident will be interviewed without an appointment.

Transportation may be provided to residents without their own means to visit Coordinated Youth Services, where the applications will be filled and initially processed.

No applicant should be eligible for either the Illinois

Home Weatherization Program or the Madison County Economic Opportunity Commission program if applying for the IP program.

State bonds may reduce interest rates on homes

The Illinois Housing Development Authority (IHDA) has sold $68.5 million in tax-exempt revenue bonds as the first step in a new program to provide below-market mortgage loans for single-family homes, condominiums, and small apartment buildings.

Bonds were sold at an interest cost of 10.25 percent, which means that participating financial institutions will make 30-year mortgage loans at 10.6 percent to qualified home buyers.

A list of banks and savings institutions participating in the program is not yet completed by IHDA officials, and applications cannot be taken for at least one week.

Proceeds from the bond sale will be loaned to participating institutions which, in turn, will make the loans to qualified families earning up to $50,200 per year. The sales price ceiling will vary in different parts of the state.

As many as 1,300 homes and apartments will be financed under the program, which Governor James Thompson hopes will enable hundreds of Illinois citizens who have been locked out of home-ownership because of high interest rates to purchase homes.

The maximum purchase price allowed for a newly-constructed one-unit home (prices pertain to areas outside of Chicago) is $85,000 for targeted areas and $70,500 for non-targeted areas. Existing single-unit homes in targeted areas may be as high as $87,000 and $82,000 in non-targeted areas.

Existing two-unit home purchase prices are up to $84,850 in targeted areas and $59,450 in non-targeted areas.

The maximum purchase price for existing three-unit homes in targeted areas is $78,500 and $71,950 in non-targeted areas.

Four-unit homes already existing may go up to $91,200 in targeted areas, while non-targeted areas may be as high as $83,600.

Newly-constructed two, three, and four-unit homes are not eligible under the program, and if these residences are two, three, or four family residences, they must have been occupied as a residence for at least five years prior to the execution of the mortgage securing the loan.

Under the central program guide outlined by the state, the 30-year mortgage loans cannot exceed a 10.6 percent interest rate, require private mortgage insurance for a down payment of less than 20 percent and a loan origin fee of one percent of the loan (plus customary closing costs), and must fall within customary conventional loan turn-around time.

No insurance is required on loans less than 80 percent of the purchase price and buy-down plans are available.

Qualification guidelines state that qualified families will be first-time home buyers with an acceptable credit history and a gross household income of $50,200 or less. Homes not exceeding the maximum purchase prices and condominiums and residential structures qualify under the program, and borrowers must promptly occupy the structure as a principal residence.

New and existing structures are included in the program, and the first-time owner qualification may be waived in targeted areas.

Interested persons may contact lending institutions for details on this area's targeted neighborhoods.

Pet care in hot weather

Heatstroke in pets, also known as sun stroke, is a dangerous condition characterized by high body temperature and collapse.

Signs of heatstroke include extreme panting, an anxious or staring expression, a fast pulse and high body temperature. Excessive salivation and vomiting are also common, according to Geraldine L. Bower, Ph.D., University of Illinois extension adviser in Madison County.

Reducing the pet's body temperature is essential. You can do this by immersing the pet in cold water or pouring cold water over its body. After the animal cools down, take it to the vet for medical attention, she advises.

If you're traveling a long distance with a pet this summer, be sure to carry fresh water with you and give your pet small amounts frequently, she says. If you have to leave the animal in the car for a few minutes, park in the shade and leave the windows open wide enough to allow some fresh air circulation without allowing your pet to jump out or get his head caught.

While your pet may enjoy traveling with you, it's very risky to leave the animal alone in the car on warm days. The temperature inside a car can reach 120 degrees Fahrenheit within 30 minutes when the outside temperature is only 85 degrees F, even with the windows slightly open, she concluded.

Trade mission to China is planned

Governor James R. Thompson announced Monday that state officials will escort representatives of 17 Illinois companies in October on an official trade mission to the People's Republic of China, the first step after the 1982 signing of a sister-state relationship with the Province of Liaoning.

Sponsored by the Department of Commerce and Community Affairs (DCCA) and the Department of Agriculture, the trade mission will leave Oct. 10 and return Oct. 23.

The representatives from the financial, manufacturing, and agribusiness communities will meet with government and foreign trade officials in Shenyang, Liaoning's capital, and Dalian, its port and major commercial city.

Appointments also are scheduled in Peking and Shanghai.

St. Gregory's applies for Colonial Drive re-zoning

The Granite City Council is considering a Colonial Drive rezoning request for St. Gregory the Illuminator Armenian Apostolic Church, 1723 Maple St.

The request was referred to the council following the unanimous recommendation of the Plan Commission.

The zoning would be used to build a church fellowship hall containing a meeting room, kitchen and a classroom. The hall would be the first part of a building plan that includes plans for a new church and parsonage.

The buildings would be constructed on 5.1 acres of property west of Colonial Drive, owned by the church. A church representative said the currently zoning change being requested would affect only three acres. The change would be from R-2, single family residential district, to C-3, community service district.

According to the findings of the Aug. 18 Plan Commission session, the rezoning would be compatible with the neighborhood.

Rich A. Scardorian, representing St. Gregory's, said the church was financially prepared to start construction immediately after the zoning request is granted.

Seventh Ward Alderman Michael Molnar referred the Plan Commission minutes to the council, which will eventually rule on the request.

While serving the warrant, an officer reported that Mikolazuk had a pair of broken glasses in a pocket. He was additionally charged with unlawful use of a weapon.

He will fill the remaining term of resigning member, Evelyn Todd, whose post expires June 30, 1985.

National Steel rejects price hike

National Steel Corp. has decided not to adopt the 7 percent Sept. 1 sheet steel and strip steel price hike announced Thursday by five other steelmakers.

In early August, National Steel, U.S. Steel and Bethlehem Steel Corp. raised prices 6 percent on tin-plated used for food and beverage cans.

But the Pittsburgh-based National Steel, owner since 1971 of Granite City Steel, rejected the idea of a second increase in strip and sheet prices within a seven-month span.

Those planning 7 percent increases on strip and sheet steel include U.S. Steel, biggest domestic steelmaker, and Bethlehem, No. 2, both of which have been reporting large financial losses.

Wheeling said it is studying whether to raise prices.

Several companies so far are retaining lower sheet and strip prices, including National, fourth largest in the industry. Attempting to limit its per-ton steel costs, National had a slight operating profit in the second quarter of 1983.

Led by the resurgence of automakers, demand is rising for sheet and strip products. Some mills have begun operating at 80 percent of capacity, nearly double their recent level of activity.

Such steel also goes into appliances and office furniture.

Although discounting continues in the steel industry, some producers feel the higher list prices will strengthen actual sales prices.

Meanwhile, National Steel will become more streamlined if its Weirton, W. Va., workers vote favorably Sept. 23 to buy the Weirton Division and set up their own company. That would leave Granite City, Great Lakes and Midwest as the main divisions in National's Steel Group.

The employees would buy Weirton for $194.2 million and assume its present liabilities.

If the 8,000 approve, they will surrender about 20 percent of their compensation but will become the owners.

Based on its 1982 revenue of $817 million, the division would be the 336th largest industry in the nation. The independent Weirton firm would try to become profitable by 1984 and it projects net 1985 income of $36 million on sales of $1.15 billion.

National Steel has told the Securities and Exchange Commission that an added $100 million charge it took in the second quarter of 1983, related to the expected Weirton sale, required National to renegotiate covenants for $125 million of outstanding loans.

It may declare dividends of no more than $35 million on preferred stock and no more than $5.4 million on common stock through March 31, 1984, and thereafter is permitted to pay cash dividends and outstanding capital stock in an aggregate amount not exceeding 35 percent of its cumulative consolidated net income.

Nameski Township residents may pay at the four Granite City banks, at the town office, 4250 Highway 102, or at the Collinsville office of Madison County Federal Savings & Loan.

Chadwick Township payments are being made at the home of Collector Michael Johnson on Hedge Road in East Aton.

Deadline for paying township tax collectors

Quad-City area taxpayers have until Wednesday or later to pay their real estate taxes locally.

Beginning Thursday, Sept. 1, the payments must go to the county treasurer at the Madison County Courthouse in Edwardsville.

The first half of the yearly taxes was due by Aug. 22. Second-half installments now are owed and may be paid here until Wednesday or at the county level on Thursday or later.

Granite City taxpayers may pay at any of the four banks in the city during regular banking hours through Wednesday or at the office of City Treasurer Nick Petrello in the City Hall.

Venice Township (Venice-Madison) real estate owners may pay at the township office, Fifth Street and Madison Avenue, Madison.

Cousteau and Calypso may go through locks

Jacques Cousteau, world famous sea explorer, and his research vessel Calypso have arrived in St. Louis and will be officially greeted by St. Louis Mayor Vincent Schoenheit at noon today.

Cousteau will give a free lecture tonight at Kiel Auditorium, but tickets are required and only a limited number remain.

The French explorer is filming a documentary on the Mississippi River, beginning his trip at New Orleans on Saturday. He has completed films on the Nile, St. Lawrence and Amazon rivers.

Cousteau has been contacted by Carl Rant, general manager of the Tri-City Port District, and has been invited to go through the Granite City Lock No. 27, the largest inland locks in the world, and visit the local port.

The explorer's plans are indefinite as of today. There is still a possibility that Cousteau will take the Calypso through the Granite City locks sometime Tuesday. He and his crew are investigating the possibility of traveling northward to either Minneapolis, Minnesota or Chicago, which would necessitate going through the local locking facility.

Cousteau will be seeking new members and donations for the Cousteau Society, a worldwide not-for-profit organization with more than 170,000 members.

COMPLETE TRAINING in travel tourism. Lisa Ann Gruber, left, and Lorinda D. Gross, right, both of Granite City, have graduated from Southeastern Academy in Kissimmee, Fla. They completed studies in career and personal development in addition to specialized occupational training. Both now are qualified for positions in the airline, travel or tourism industries.

Library appointments made

Joseph R. McGinness Sr., 2605 Washington Ave., has been appointed as a replacement on the Granite City Public Library Board of Trustees.

He will fill the remaining term of resigning member, Evelyn Todd, whose post expires June 30, 1985.

The selection was made by Mayor Paul Schuler and approved by the Granite City Council last week.

McGinness, a resident of the area for many years, is employed as a mechanic at the Admiral Merchant Motor Freight.

In the past, McGinness tried twice to gain a seat as alderman for the Second Ward.

Schuler reappointed Haig Nigholman, Ronald Coleman and George Filcoff Sr. as library board members. Their new terms will run to June 30, 1986.

UP IN SMOKE. An old shed near Third and State streets in Madison goes up in flames and smoke Thursday afternoon as Madison volunteer firemen contain the blaze to the structure. Fire officials speculated that a wood pile burning nearby caused the fire, for which no estimate of damage was made. Workers had finished tearing down the former Dollar Store, adjacent to the shed, earlier that day and were burning the scrap wood. The fire drew a number of spectators as dense smoke billowed up and decreased visibility along State Street.

Job Training Plan submitted

Nelson Hagauer, chairman of the Madison County Board, has announced the submission of the fiscal year 1984 Job Training Plan through the U. S. Department of Labor's Job Training Partnership Act (JTPA).

Madison County, serving as grant recipient, administrative entity and planning entity for the Service Delivery Area (SDA) of Madison and Bond counties, received local Privately Industry Council approval of the plan at their last meeting on Aug. 10. The plan now is undergoing review by the governor and other interested parties.

The Job Training Plan replaces the current CETA program and provides for the establishment of employment and training services for 1,080 participants during the period of Oct. 1, 1983, through June 30, 1984. Services to be provided include job search assistance, vocational training, on-the-job training, work experience, try-out employment and pre-employment screening.

A budget of $1,977,876 is anticipated with $1,384,514 utilized for training, $296,481 for participant support and $296,881 for administration.

A complete copy of the plan and any subsequent modifications will be available for review at the Madison County Courthouse, Director of Administration Office, Mondays through Fridays from 9 a.m. through 5 p.m., and the Bond County Courthouse, Bond County Board Office, Mondays through Fridays from 8 a.m. through 4 p.m.

Persons interested in participating in the services offered through the plan may contact the local Illinois Job Service Office in American Village Shopping Center.

Weber to file suit against Amiel Cueto

By JUDY TAPLIN

Madison County State's Attorney Don Weber says he will file a $31 million civil lawsuit Tuesday against Belleville attorney Amiel Cueto.

Weber said $1 million will be sought for each of 31 allegations made by Cueto in a petition filed with the county court Aug. 19. The petition requests a special prosecutor to investigate Weber.

Weber calls the allegations "scandalous" and says he is filing suit because nobody should have to go through what he has. "Things have gone too far," he said.

He said a motion also will be filed today or Tuesday seeking dismissal of Cueto's petition. The motion will note that Cueto's allegations are hearsay.

The Madison County judges are scheduled to discuss Cueto's petition in a meeting tomorrow.

Weber says he believes Cueto should be required to answer under oath as to whether he knows the petition's allegations to be true.

Most of the allegations are the same ones Cueto made in a letter in January. He sent the letter to the Madison County board, the chief circuit judge and the Illinois Attorney Registration and Disciplinary Commission.

Some of the allegations were new — that Weber had fixed his own DUI ticket and that he had been seen walking down a road in jockey shorts, carrying a soldering gun.

Weber said the source of those two allegations was a woman who has spent time in a mental facility in Alton.

He alleged that the woman, a former police officer in the Metro-East area, has fire-bombed her own house, shot herself in the arm and shot her own dog, claiming in each case that other people had committed the acts. She also has claimed to be a rape victim, he said.

"She is crazy as a June bug," Weber told a reporter.

The woman, who now lives in St. Louis, could not be reached for comment.

Weber said as far as he knows, a U.S. attorney, the Illinois attorney general and the Attorney Registration and Disciplinary Commission have all concluded that Cueto's allegations have no basis.

The bad blood between Weber and Cueto began with a rape trial two years ago in which Cueto's client was acquitted. Cueto filed a "malicious prosecution" suit against Weber, claiming that the state's attorney knew beforehand that the defendant was innocent.

Cueto, a Democrat, claims his attacks on Weber — Madison County's lone Republican officeholder — have no political origins.

Others, however, believe it is all part of a scenario to discredit Weber so that he will not be re-elected.

In an interview Friday, Weber said he was so disillusioned with the present situation that he might decide not to run again in 1984.

Talbot Hall offering 2 relapse workshops

The chemical dependency recovery unit of St. Elizabeth Medical Center in Granite City will be sponsoring a workshop designed to explore the problem of relapse in alcoholics and examine the stigma and stereotypes that have inhibited effective work with relapse-prone patients.

The workshop, which is open to the public, will be conducted at the hospital Sept. 29 and 30 from 8 a.m. to 4:30 p.m., said Della Kinsolving, director of Talbot Hall, the chemical dependency recovery unit.

The course, entitled "Chemical Dependency Prevention," will be presented by a nationally recognized trainer and lecturer on relapse prevention, Terence Gorski, president of CENAP Corporation, a consultation and training firm that specializes in crisis management, alcoholism, drug dependency and mental health services.

During the two-day workshop, participants will develop basic competencies in many areas concerned with relapse prevention—from defining relapse, identifying, measuring the severity, intervening, and understanding the consequences of the untreated relapse personality.

The first day of the course will focus on the theoretical foundation necessary to understanding and treating the relapse-prone patient. Gorski, a senior certified alcoholism counselor, will present two models that describe common relapse warning signs.

The second day will be devoted to an overview of the relapse prevention planning process and a summary of the nine-step prevention model. Special emphasis will be placed upon relapse warning sign identification and daily inventory techniques as tools in relapse prevention.

The cost of the workshop is $65 for participants registering before Sept. 10. After Sept. 10, the cost is $75. Lunch and refreshments are included in the fee.

Continuing education units will be awarded to nursing and chemical dependency practitioners enrolling in the course.

Interested persons may register by sending a check payable to St. Elizabeth Medical Center to Della Kinsolving, director, Talbot Hall, 2100 Madison Ave., Granite City, Ill., 62040. Name, address, telephone number and name of agency should accompany each request.

Many license plates expire Wednesday

Secretary of State Jim Edgar is reminding motorists that midnight Wednesday, Aug. 31, is the deadline for car owners with license plate registrations expiring in August to display the purple 1984 stickers in the upper right corner of their rear license plate.

"Approximately 554,000 renewal applications have been mailed to registered owners who are currently displaying the orange 1983 stickers that expire in August," Edgar said.

Stickers may be purchased over the counter at Secretary of State facilities in Springfield and Chicago, and at more than 1,400 financial institutions, including 617 banks, 180 savings and loan associations, 16 credit unions and about 600 Chicago area currency exchanges.

Effective Thursday, Sept. 1, anyone driving a car with an expired orange, August, 1983, sticker will be subject to a fine for improper registration.

Boy, 5, in ICU after bike mishap

Paul Solomon, 5, son of Mrs. Darlene Farmer, 4905 Kirkpatrick Homes, is in stable condition today in the intensive care unit at St. Elizabeth Medical Center.

The youngster sustained a possible punctured lung and other injuries when he fell from a bicycle about 2:30 p.m. Sunday in Kirkpatrick Homes. He experienced breathing difficulties and was taken by ambulance to the hospital, it was learned.

BURGLAR FLEES FROM DWELLING

Mrs. Gladys Sumrall, 2941 Pershing Blvd., walked past a bedroom from the living room and saw the reflection of a man crawling on the floor through a mirror at 6:20 p.m. Sunday.

She told police that she screamed, and the man jumped up and fled outside through a rear door. The intruder was of medium build and wearing blue jeans. Three bottles of medication were immediately determined to be missing from the home.

PLEADS INNOCENT

Mark A. Yates, 42, of 4901 Kirkpatrick Homes pleaded innocent to a 1983 warrant charging petty theft at a hearing before Associate Judge Thomas Hildebrand, after being arrested at E. 22nd and Charles streets. Yates was transferred Thursday to the Madison County jail.

Pickets appear at water offices today

Pickets appeared this morning outside Granite City facilities of the Illinois-American Water Co., protesting a lack of contact between the water company and the laborers in Belleville and East St. Louis.

Granite City has contracts with its unions, but the laborers here are honoring the picket lines," Robert Jackson, manager of the IA office here said this morning.

PURSE SNATCHER GETS CHECK, STAMPS

When a man walked up and asked for a cigarette at 12:30 a.m. Sunday, Feltzer Wooten, 413 Bissell St., Venice, started getting one from her purse, but the man snatched the shoulder bag and ran east on the 1000 block of Bissell Street, she told Venice officers.

The thief was about 5 feet, 6 inches tall and was wearing blue jeans, a tee-shirt and tennis shoes, she said.

Inside the purse were a signed check for $413, $236 worth of food stamps and personal papers. Mrs. Wooten reported,
